

"In a moment that phone will ring," one of them says. "The person calling will be Dr. Claude DuMont. You will identify yourself so that he will know it is really you he is talking to. Then you will tell him that the only way the whales can be saved now is to get Russian cooperation."

"So you think this will trick DuMont into talking?" you ask sarcastically.

"That's right," the frog remarks, "we have other ways, of course. Using you is our humane method." He laughs. "But if you play any tricks, you will die." The phone rings.

---

*If you refuse to cooperate,
turn to page 91.*

*If you say you'll cooperate,
hoping somehow to score Chiffent,
turn to page 94.*